

QA INTERVIEW ACCELERATOR

Job Search Tracker Template

Stay organised and in control of your applications.

Introduction

A job search has many moving parts. This tracker keeps every application, contact and follow-up in one place so nothing slips and you can see your progress.

Instructions

- Recreate this as a spreadsheet (or print it).
- Add a row per application; update the status as you go.
- Review it weekly and chase anything overdue.

Tracker Columns

Column	Purpose
Company / Role	What you applied for
Date applied	When
Source	Where you found it
Status	Applied / Screening / Interview / Offer / Rejected
Contact	Recruiter / hiring manager
Next action + date	Follow-up or prep needed
Notes	Tailoring, salary, learnings

Blank Reusable Template (one row)

- Source:
- Status:

- Contact:
- Next action + date:
- Notes:

Practical Exercise

Set up the tracker and add your current or target applications. Identify any that need a follow-up this week.

Best Practices

- Update it the moment something changes.
- Always set a "next action" so nothing stalls.
- Track learnings to improve each application.

Common Mistakes

- Relying on memory across many applications.
- Never following up.
- No record of what you tailored or were told.

INSIDE STLC PRO TIP

Following up politely a few days after applying or interviewing sets you apart — most candidates never do, and it signals genuine interest.
