Post-Interview Follow-up Email Templates

Professional templates for thank-you notes and chasing decisions.

Introduction

A short, well-judged follow-up email keeps you front of mind and shows professionalism. These templates cover the most common situations — adapt them to sound like you.

Instructions

- Send a thank-you within 24 hours of the interview.
- Keep it short, specific and warm.
- Personalise with something from the conversation.

Template 1 — Thank-you (same day)

Subject: Thank you — [Role] interview. "Hi [Name], thank you for taking the time to speak with me today about the [Role] position. I enjoyed learning about [specific thing] and I am even more excited about the opportunity. Please let me know if I can provide anything further. Best regards, [You]."

Template 2 — Chasing a decision

"Hi [Name], I hope you are well. I wanted to follow up on the [Role] interview from [date]. I remain very interested and would be glad to answer any further questions. Is there an update on the timeline? Thank you, [You]."

Template 3 — Responding to an offer (asking time)

"Hi [Name], thank you so much for the offer — I am delighted. Would it be possible to have until [date] to review the details? I want to give it the consideration it deserves. Thank you, [You]."

Template 4 — Polite decline / staying in touch

"Hi [Name], thank you for the opportunity and for letting me know. I really enjoyed meeting the team and would welcome staying in touch for future roles. Wishing you all the best, [You]."

Practical Exercise

Personalise Template 1 for a real or mock interview, adding one specific detail from the conversation.

Best Practices

- Be prompt, brief and specific.
- Proofread — errors undo the good impression.
- Keep the tone warm and professional.

Common Mistakes

- Never following up.
- Generic copy-paste with no personalisation.
- Chasing too aggressively or too often.

INSIDE STLC PRO TIP

A thoughtful thank-you that references a specific moment from the interview can tip a close decision in your favour. It costs two minutes.
